

General Data Protection Regulation Readiness Review

Align your Security and Privacy Programs to Reach GDPR Compliance

Challenge

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) requirement is quickly approaching and will affect establishments around the world. As of May 2018 when the GDPR accountability principle takes effect, organizations will be required to demonstrate compliance with the appropriate measures in place.

What happens in case of compliance unavailability or/and non-existence?

There are specific fines existing due to compliance dislocation. The fine payment laws, formulated by government, require to pay 4-5% of global company revenue or 10 million dollars based on the recent information announced by European Union.

Today, organizations work to understand how these requirements fit into their current information security and privacy program and develop a plan to reach and maintain compliance. How do we begin to look for the solution?

Solution

UnderDefense has the proven ability to look at a client's security and privacy program holistically while also ensuring relevant industry regulations and compliance requirements are met. Of course, preparing for GDPR compliance requires time, people, process as well as technology. We are ready to make necessary and important steps with you, look back and understand the gaps in your system and create a strategic roadmap to enable execution. UnderDefense's GDPR readiness review prepares our clients to meet GDPR requirements strategically, cost effectively and aligned to their business.

Assets and Controls Identification:

UnderDefense identifies critical assets and evaluates current controls in place relevant to GDPR.

Actionable Findings and Roadmap:

UnderDefense delivers an executive level summary on the current state of the program along with actionable recommendations and guidance to reach GDPR

GDPR Maturity Evaluation :

UnderDefense reviews your current position, maps to GDPR areas of focus and identifies key risk areas.

Professional Privacy Consultants Delivery:

UnderDefense executive level consultants deliver intensive, 2 weeks interview-based GDPR offering with extensive security and privacy background.

UnderDefense has an extremely large and skilled team of security experts and offices located in New York (the USA), Wroclaw (Poland) and Lviv (Ukraine). Each of our experts is committed to performing research, developing solutions and working with clients – and one another – to solve specific security problems as well as those of the industry at large. Together they form a very well respected group of subject matter experts and thought leaders that represent every category of cyber security.

UnderDefense is able to transcend our reach beyond traditional corporate boundaries. As a result, we are able to provide you with better, more effective, more integrated solutions that meet the unique requirements of your specific environment. Our unrivaled passion for information security and being the best means no matter what to achieve our main goal - to make your business more successful than ever.